TESTIMONIALS

Without Alex, I wouldn't have been able to get into my dream school. I started working with Alex in eighth grade, and he helped me to form specific goals and plans for my high school tenure. With these specific goals and plans, my application had a harmonic element that made me different from other applicants. In order for me to stand out, Alex and I worked on the junction for all my high school achievements and life experiences: the common app and supplemental essays. Since the beginning of summer before my senior year, Alex and I wrote at least fifty drafts in total for ten different schools. Alex suggested specific edits from my initial drafts that would make my essays to connect with my passion for STEM. With hard work from both Alex and me, we ended up with final drafts that radiated my background and passion for colleges. I strongly believe that the essays were a big part of my success, and I thank Alex for his help.

I began working with Alex during my sophomore year, so I was able to implement many of his ideas, such as hands-on research papers and a science blog, which really helped me present myself as a knowledgeable and self-driven scientist in my applications! Even though he had many good suggestions and obviously knew what could create a brilliant application, he never tried to stifle my unique interests and helped me incorporate them into my essays. When it came to editing, he always made sure that the essays still used my voice and that they were truly representative of me. I wouldn't have known how to present myself in the best possible way to elite institutions without Alex's help.

Jenny, Caltech Class of '24

I couldn't be where I am without the support that I received from Alex. It's important to acknowledge because, as a high school student, this is my first time experiencing the college process. Still, with Alex, he's already gone through the process hundreds of times, so it was easy to bounce back ideas with him during the brainstorming process. Throughout the college process, I could always be reassured that there was someone out there looking out for me. Having another set of eyes to check over your essays is extremely helpful.
